

Positioned for the Shift Early Childhood Trainings for Parents and Professionals in Early Childhood & Preschool Education

These trainings are designed to help parents and early childhood professionals shift through every phase of a child's early learning journey by:

- Improving the quality of services provided to young children with disabilities and their families.
- Equipping parents and professionals with the knowledge, skills and steadfastness to advocate for early learners throughout different phases of the child's educational experience and
- Helping parents and educators build meaningful, trust-based relationships.

Training Titles & Descriptions

Shifting through Part C of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA): A Brief overview of Early Intervention Process for Infants and Toddlers (birth to age 3)

In this training, participants will learn:

- Key components of Part C of IDEA
- Child find and eligibility requirements
- Evaluation processes
- Examples of early intervention services
- Options available when a child does not qualify for services under Part C

Shifting into Part B of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA)

The IEP process can be daunting but with the right tools and resources, you can navigate your way to success. In this training participants will learn what qualifies a child for an IEP, how to request an evaluation, evaluation requirements, IEP components, and reevaluations.

Positioned for the Shift Early Childhood Trainings for Parents and Professionals in Early Childhood & Preschool Education

Shifting into Behavior Intervention Plans that Work:

A BIP is not a plan for punishment or something used only when things go wrong. It's a strategic tool to prevent challenging behaviors before they occur, and when they do, to guide children toward positive outcomes through teaching, support, and reinforcement. The goal is to plan on purpose, not in crisis. In this training participants will learn: When a Behavior Intervention Plan is required; How to collaborate with families to create purposeful, effective plans; what components must be included and when a BIP should be reviewed and revised.

Shifting into Meaningful Family Engagement: Engaging Parents as Partners

In this training we will explore the barriers families face when advocating for their child's educational needs and the common ground to restoring the parent/teacher relationship through communication and shared partnership.

Shifting from Chaos to Calm: Out of the Box Strategies that Promote Peaceful Learning Environments

In this training, participants will learn how to identify and eliminate the invisible forces that promote chaos in the classroom. This chaos disrupts the student/teacher relationship as well as the student's success. Participants will learn the importance of self-awareness which can promote a peaceful and nurturing learning environment.

Zero Tolerance School Discipline Practices-A Gateway to Juvenile Justice Involvement for Students as Young as Preschool

In this training we will explore the harmful effects of zero tolerance school discipline policies, how they prime students as young as preschool for juvenile justice involvement and how you can make a difference.

In past roles, Nakatia has developed training courses for the Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education addressing the educational needs of children with disabilities under IDEA specifically addressing the school to prison pipeline crisis.

Nakatia doesn't just teach, she gives strategies on how to apply what is learned to ensure better outcomes for training participants. Her messages move beyond education and resources—bringing healing, restoration, and transformational change to individuals and organizations.

"Thank you so very much for presenting to my class today! I enjoyed meeting you and hearing your story. Having a real life story is so much better than the case studies students are required to do in college. You are making a difference in the lives of so many children!"
